

Did you know?

Nearly 250,000 people live in Camden and the population is expected to grow by 10% over the next 10 years.

Camden's daytime population is close to 500,000

37% of our population are between 25 and 44, compared with 26% nationally.

37%

23%

The majority of Camden's population are long-term residents. They are almost evenly divided between owner-occupiers (a third), private renters (a third) and residents who live in social housing (a third), with 23% rented from the council.

35% of our residents are from a black and minority ethnic background.

35%

13% of our population were born elsewhere in the EU.

13%

There are 173 languages spoken in Camden schools.

11% of the population are higher education students, and we have the highest number of higher education institutes in Camden, more than any other London borough.

11%

94%

94% of Camden's young people aged 16 to 18 are in Learning.

There are more than 352,000 jobs
in Camden, 7% of all employment in London.

3rd

Camden has the third highest number of business start-ups in London.

Did you know?

The average (median) household income in Camden is £36,851. This is higher than the London average (£31,277), but ranges from £22,819 to £51,873 across different areas of the borough.