	Information about the Lodgement of Street Trading Licences in Circumstances of ill Health or Carers Leave
60	Licence charges will be payable for the first month of a period of certified sickness.	Amended	116	In any cases of sickness/pregnancy where a licence holder is unable to occupy their pitch, they should notify the Market Service on the first day of absence, specifying the reasons and the likely length of absence if possible. During the period of absence, a registered assistant is permitted to trade on behalf of the licence holder or, if they do not employ an assistant, we may temporarily allocate the pitch to a temporary licence holder	To provide clearer processes for the management of trader absences
61	A medical certificate must be submitted weekly or monthly where there is a long period of illness. Medical certificates will not be accepted retrospectively.	Amended	111	If the licence holder wishes to have their licence fees waived, then the licence holder is required to provide the Market Service with a medical certificate no later than fourteen days after the first day that they were unable to trade and pay the required deposit fee. Further certificates must be submitted if necessary in order to cover the whole period of absence. The licence holder must meet the cost of obtaining any certificate[s].	To provide clearer processes for the management of trader absences when lodging licences
62	A licensed street trader after a period of 1 month of certified sickness may deposit his/her street trading licence with the Council until she/he recommences street trading. No licence charges will be payable whilst the licence is deposited with the Council.	Amended	118	After twelve weeks of continuous absence due to medically certified sickness and subject to there being no significant arrears in charges payable, we may exercise our discretion if requested to do so by a licence holder and allow a registered assistant to act on behalf of a licence holder. This does not confer on the named registered assistant any claim over the pitch or associated rights following the return of the permanent licence holder and must be surrendered at this point if they wish to continue acting as a registered assistant. Such arrangements will be kept under review. In the event that no medical certificates are forthcoming we may take steps to revoke the licence.	To provide clearer processes regarding continued trade or deposit of licence during periods of the Licensees ill health

APPENDIX A

63	No licence deposited with the Council will be returned unless a doctor's medical certificate of fitness is submitted to the Council.	Amended	119	We will review the suitability of the absent licence holder to continue to hold a permanent street trading licence after six months of continuous absence and every six months thereafter. If it becomes the case that they are unable to return in person and attend their stall to the full extent required by their licence, then they shall be given the opportunity to surrender it and apply for a temporary licence or retire on ill-health grounds, in the absence of a successor being nominated in accordance with 3.4 above. This condition will also apply where sickness exceeds six months aggregate within any 12-month period. This is without prejudice to our taking steps to revoke the licence on the grounds that the licence holder is an individual who has without reasonable excuse personally failed fully to avail himself of his/her licence.	To provide clearer guidance on procedure relating to the Licensees continued ill health and options available
64	In the event that illness prevents a licensed street trader from trading, provided that conditions 60 to 62 are complied with, the Council may, upon application in writing from the street trader, permit a named assistant to run the business during his/her absence.	Amended	120	Licence holders are required to give written notice forty-eight hours in advance for holidays of a duration which is less than two weeks. For extended leave exceeding two weeks, the licence holder must obtain written permission from the Market Service and ensure that all outstanding fees and charges have been paid. During their absence, a registered assistant will be allowed to trade on their behalf or, if they do not employ an assistant, we may allocate the pitch to a temporary licence holder.	To provide clearer processes for licensees when wishing to take periods of extended leave
65	The Council will review absence of the licensed street trader on account of certified sickness, after 3 consecutive months of absence. At the time of the review a decision will be taken on whether the lodgement will be allowed to continue. If a decision is taken that the lodgement will not be allowed to continue the trader will be notified of the date on which the lodgement ceases. At that time if the trader is unable to or does not return to trade the pitch will become vacant.	Amended	121	A licence holder who is an expectant mother or for adoption or fostering leave shall be permitted to deposit their licence with the Market Service for up to six months or such alternative period as may be specified by law. If they employ a registered assistant, then on application by the licence holder we will allow a named registered assistant to act on their behalf. This does not confer on the assistant any claim over the pitch or associated rights following the return of the permanent licence holder. It remains the responsibility of the licence holder to pay all trading charges. If the licence holder has no registered assistant, then whilst consideration may be given to wholly or partially waiving charges for the period of absence providing evidence is provided as and when requested.	To provide clearer guidance and to include other circumstances where leave with suspended fees will be permitted and other options available

66	Where a licensed street trader is unable to attend their stall(s) as a result of having to provide care for a dependant, it may be possible to exempt that trader from personal trading for a maximum period of 3 months, provided that written application is made to the Council supported by medical evidence.	Amended	122	All other requests for extended leave, on the grounds of paternity leave, religious purposes, carers leave or similar, will be considered on an individual basis to ensure that a fair and reasonable decision is made in every case. Our decision shall be final. Please note, all street trading charges are payable during licensees' absence unless specifically agreed to be waived.	To provide additional circumstances where extended leave will be considered
67	Where the Council has granted carer's leave the trader may make use of an assistant to run the business during their absence. In cases such as these the licensee is still obliged to pay his/her street trading fees.
